Introduction

A criminal record is a permanent record accessible to any person, agency, or institution having a "legitimate interest" in the matter. Access to a juvenile record, if not sealed or restricted, can become a major barrier to obtaining financial aid, housing, public benefits, educational and licensing opportunities, and various jobs. The reality of living with a criminal past can make it difficult for a person to get past youthful mistakes.

This manual provides useful information for families and attorneys who are unfamiliar with the procedure for sealing juvenile records pursuant to Section 58.003 of the Family Code. It does not provide information regarding expunction, automatic restricted access, or other available protections for limiting access to juvenile records.

This manual does not provide information about municipal court procedures or orders of nondisclosure under Texas Government Code § 411.081.

These materials are not to be used as a substitute for the advice of an attorney. Persons reviewing this manual should not act upon this information without seeking legal counsel.

This manual would not have been possible without the invaluable assistance of the following people: Tran Dang, Baker Botts L.L.P; Brian Brotman, Rutgers University School of Law; and Rebecca Renfro, Attorney at Law, Spring, Texas.

The Texas Foster Youth Justice Project is sponsored by Texas RioGrande Legal Aid with funding from the Supreme Court of Texas' Permanent Judicial Commission for Children, Youth and Families, and the Texas Equal Access to Justice Foundation.

We would appreciate your comments. Please contact us at info@texascbar.org.

Frequently Asked Questions

What are Juvenile Records?

If you have ever been involved with the juvenile justice system, any documents about that encounter can become part of your juvenile record. This record may include:

- Basic information about you (date of birth, address, etc.)
- Records of your arrest or detention and what you were charged with
- Court documents from your trial
- Your sentencing or disposition, including probation
- What programs you were assigned to (treatment programs, schools, etc.)

What Does "Sealing" Mean and Why Should I Do It?

When a juvenile record is "sealed," it's treated like it doesn't exist. You are allowed to deny that anything described in this record ever happened. If a judge, lawyer, or police officer is asked about you, they are required by law to respond as if anything related to your record never existed. It is also removed from the Criminal History Database, so your name will not come up if someone searches for you on it. 2

If juvenile records are not sealed, anyone with a "legitimate interest" in accessing your records will be able to see them. This often means that potential employers, college admission offices, or landlords can see your arrest record. Getting your record sealed can be an important step in successfully finding a job, going to college, and finding a place to live.

Aren't My Juvenile Records Sealed Automatically?

No. Texas does have a system called "Automatic Restriction of Access to Records," which automatically makes juvenile records harder to access once you turn 21, if you haven't been convicted of anything else since you turned 17. But this does not seal your records. Most criminal justice agencies can still access these records, and use them against you if you are charged with a crime as an adult. Also, if you are convicted of, or placed on deferred adjudication for, a crime that is a Class B Misdemeanor or higher after turning 17, your records can be taken off of restricted access.³

Automatic Restriction does not apply to determinate sentence adjudications for certain offenses and habitual felony conduct or certifications to criminal court, sex offender registration records, or gang-related records.

Can Any Juvenile Record be Sealed?

No. Records of certain offenses cannot be sealed. You cannot seal your juvenile record if:

- You have received a determinate sentence adjudication for any of the following offenses:
 - * Murder
 - * Attempted Murder
 - * Manslaughter
 - * Sexual Assault
 - * Aggravated Assault
 - * Aggravated Robbery
 - * Causing Injury to a Child, Elderly Person, or Disabled Person
 - * Deadly Conduct with a Firearm
 - * Possession and/or selling of large amounts of illegal drugs (generally anything more than 200 grams)
 - * Criminal Solicitation
 - * Indecency with a Child
 - * Arson
 - * Conspiracy to commit any of the above ⁵
- You committed a felony, and your case started in juvenile court but was moved to adult criminal court.⁶
- You have engaged in "habitual felony conduct" for which you received a determinate sentence.⁸
- You are required to register with and report to the Texas Sex Offender Registration Program.

If I Successfully Complete a Drug Court Program, Can My Juvenile Records be Sealed?

Yes. A juvenile court may order the records sealed if a juvenile successfully completes a drug program under Chapter 469 of the Health & Safety Code.

How Do I Know if I Received a Determinate Sentence?

Determinate sentencing is reserved for the most serious offenses listed on the previous page. A determinate sentence is a type of "blended" sentence involving rehabilitation at the Texas Youth Commission (TYC) with the possibility of incarceration in the adult penitentiary if a youth is unsuccessful or uncooperative at TYC. If your offense is on the list, you will need an attorney to review your juvenile court file to determine whether your juvenile records can be sealed.

How Do I Know if I was Convicted of a Felony or a Misdemeanor?

A felony is a more serious offense, usually punishable by confinement in a penitentiary for adults. ⁹ Less serious offenses are called misdemeanors. ¹⁰

How Do I Know if I Have Engaged in "Habitual Felony Conduct?"

A person is considered to have engaged in "habitual felony conduct" if he or she has been adjudicated of at least three separate felonies, other than a state jail felony. ¹¹

How Do I Seal My Juvenile Record?

You first have to file an Application for Sealing of Files and Records in a juvenile court in the same county where the original proceedings took place. ¹² Every question on the application should be answered completely. If you can't answer a question, you must explain why the information is missing. ¹³ A sample of the application is included in this manual. You should call the juvenile probation department of the county to see if they have a form they use.

After the court receives the application, a judge will decide whether or not your juvenile record should be sealed. The judge does not have to hold a hearing if you waive the right to a hearing in writing and the court and the prosecution consent. ¹⁴ If the judge decides to seal your record, they will issue an Order for Sealing of Files and Records.

- If you are found not guilty at your adjudication hearing, or the matter was dismissed, the court should have immediately ordered all files and records sealed.¹⁵
- If you successfully completed a drug court program, the juvenile court may order your records of either a misdemeanor or felony offense sealed immediately.
- If your juvenile offense was a misdemeanor, a court MUST seal your record if:
 - * It has been two years since your final discharge from the juvenile system, and
 - * During those two years, you have not been convicted or adjudicated of anything else, and no charges are pending against you. 16
 - If your juvenile offense was a felony, the court does not have to seal your record, but it MAY seal it only if:
 - You are 21 years of age or older; AND
 - * You have not been convicted of another felony after turning 17.

How Long Will it Take to Seal My Juvenile Record?

After a judge orders a juvenile record sealed, any agency or official who has a copy of the record must send it back to the court by the 61st day after the date the order is received. ¹⁷

How Long Do I Have to Seal My Juvenile Record?

There is no time limit on sealing your record. But to get the maximum benefit you should seal it as soon as possible.

Can My Sealed Juvenile File Ever be Unsealed?

Yes. There are three ways your file can be unsealed, after approval from the juvenile court.

- 1. You can request to inspect your own sealed records. 18
- 2. If your sealed record contains a felony, and you are later on trial for another felony, the prosecutor can request that the record be unsealed. 19
- 3. The Department of Public Safety can request to inspect sealed files if you apply for a license to carry a concealed handgun.²⁰

How Do I Know if My Juvenile File is Sealed?

A person can request records from the agencies that the court ordered to seal the records. This step is useful to determine whether the process worked.
